

The Carceral Studies Working Group

Presents the 2006-07 Program :

The Violence of Confinement: Conversations on Criminalization and Resistance

Please Join Us For Our 2nd Conversation:

‘But Who Protects Us From You?’
Defining and Defying State Violence in Historical and Contemporary Contexts

Featuring Writing Violence and Resistance Members:

Aisha Finch, Ford Fellow & Ph.D Candidate, Dept. of History, New York University
"Insurgency at the Crossroads: Cuban Slaves and the Conspiracy of La Escalera, 1841-1844"

Johonna McCants, Ph.D. Student, Dept. of American Studies, Univ. of Maryland
"New Anti-Violence Activism: Contemporary Organizing Against Prisons and Police Harassment by Women and Youth of Color"

Tamara Walker, Ph.D Candidate, Dept. of History, University of Michigan
"‘He has outfitted his family in notable decency’: Criminality and Sociability among Slaves and Free Blacks in Eighteenth-Century Lima"

Join Us for this Conversation on Tu., Nov. 7 4:00-6:00 pm
1108 Holzapfel Hall
University of Maryland, College Park

For more info, e-mail Johonna McCants
johonna@umd.edu

Moderated by:

Jessica Johnson, Dept. of History
Univ. of Maryland-College Park

This event is sponsored by the American Studies Department and the Latin American Studies Center

Refreshments will be provided.